

Accessing the Imaginal Realm to Heal our Planet

Reb Zalman Schachter Shalomi

Our planet is in grave danger. Pollution, war, and the plundering of natural resources afflict her. Warring cosmologies and the resultant policies produce inflammations, which are inimical to the planetary health; and we, who are the cells of the global brain, are challenged to go deeply into the planet's hidden operating files to untangle the messed up connections. What are these hidden operating files? They are the underlying rules of operation — like the hidden operating files that establish the way the computer starts up. Similarly, the Earth's hidden operating files put in place all the functions necessary for it to operate healthily. These files include all the functions of nourishment, resource management, and waste product elimination or reprocessing, and of healing various wounds that are incurred in the daily planetary operations. We now are at the point of producing great waste without having the means for timely elimination or reprocessing, and the wounds that are routinely inflicted on the Earth are not given adequate care and time for repair and healing. We therefore need to upgrade our planet's operating files so they can handle the increased speed of change and the routine damage on a planetary scale.

While I was in deep meditation, it came to me that it is useless to try to solve the conflicts of the world on the plane in which they occur. We cannot use equal force to oppose the karma loosened on the world without bringing about an even greater cataclysm. If we try to solve physical problems at the same, physical level as those problems, it is probable that the change we introduce will cause a destabilizing reaction at that physical level when the planetary body seeks to establish stasis under the new conditions.
